CHAMPION, (Alberta) THURSDAY, April 11, 1935

NUMBER 51

Soil Research

In all countries soil research is the most important work in agriculture, and in this, as in other branches of science, Canada has taken a leading part. At the present time, with reference to research and experimental projects in soils, over 100 separate undertakings are officially listed as being under way in Canada. The number of projects alone does not convey a true conception of the nature and amount of the work being done on soil problems. Because of the broad scope of research and experimental work in the investigation of soil problems, ranging from fundamental studies of the soil itself through the whole field of soil-plant relationship in crop production, it is obviously difficult, as "Scientific Agriculture" points out, to make more than a very broad classification. To indicate something of the field of investigation covered, the projects may be grouped roughly as follows:—soil survey, 10 projects; soil chemistry, 16; soil fertility, (field experiments and correlated laboratory investigations) 48; soil cultivation, 6; and soil microbiology, 6 projects. It would appear that there is opportunity for considerable development in the field of fundamental laboratory investigations in all the provinces.

Concert Poorly Attended

No doubt the weather on Saturday evening prevented many from hearing the Vulcan Concert Orchestra as the attendance was small. It is a pity as they are an aggregation of musical artists that compare with the best. It was a treat that should not have been missed, and worthy of whole hearted support.

Girl Guide Notes

Information concerning the cost of tickets to the Jamboree in Calgary on Easter Monday has been received. The return fare for adults is $1.80, and for children under twelve, 90 cents. A ticket of admission to the Jam comes for those travelling by special train is 25 cents. To others, 35 cents and 50 cents.

Since the money for these tickets has to be sent to Calgary by Monday 15th, anyone wishing to go to the Jamboree must make arrangements with Miss Martin before noon on Saturday 13th.

The train will leave Champion about 11.30 and arrive at Calgary about 3.00. The return train will leave Calgary about 11.30 and arrive at Champion about 1.30 a.m., April 23rd.

The Guides are now selling tickets to the Easter Tea, and hope that their friends will respond generously, as on the amount raised before Saturday depends the number of Guides who can go to the Jamboree.

Weather conditions are getting warmer, melting the snow and making some of the side roads muddy and slippery, the moisture is going into the ground nicely.

The demand for frozen poultry in England still continues at satisfactory prices, 30.802 box having been exported from Canada from January 1 to March 23, 1935, a very large increase over the shipments in the corresponding period of 1934.

Spring Snow Storm

Brings Needed Moisture

A spring snow storm in April with mid winter intensity greeted the people of the district Monday morning. The snow that had been falling lightly during Sunday morning thickened when the wind got up shortly after midnight and the temperature ranged about ten above. Yet it is what the country needed, a good snow storm to start off the spring seeding, as the top soil was dry. Farmers will welcome this moisture, though the drifts make travelling a little inconvenient.

Witness Hockey Game

Seven cars travelled to Lethbridge Monday evening to see the hockey game between Calgary and the All Stars, and were well pleased with the game they saw. All cars managed to get through all right but coming home shovelling had to be done in one or two spots.

Hear District Report

The Champion W. I. met at the home of Mrs. W. R. Johansen on Tuesday, April 9th. The report of the District Convention at Lethbridge was given by Mrs. Johansen. Mrs. B. Hummel gave an interesting summary of current events of the past month. Miss Martin gave a most interesting and educational address on "The Friend of Modern Fiction." Tea was served by Mrs. A. W. Johnson and Mrs. Johansen.

Visit of W. G. M.

Mrs. Margaret Logie of Calgary, Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of Alberta, D. E. S., made her official visit to Champion Chapter on Thursday evening, April 4th. She approved highly of the work of the chapter which she found comparatively in the highest class.

Boy Scouts in uniform will convene in this district, on Saturday, April 6th, at a Saturday Tea for the King, George V Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund, according to word received from the provincial headquarters at Calgary. At each home or place of business, the scouts will leave an envelope bearing the name and address of the Committee of Bessborough. The Scouts are not collecting funds. Those wishing to assist this worthy work will then enclose their contribution seal and mail the envelope. No stamps are required. They will then receive a personal acknowledgment from Lady Bessborough from Ottawa.

GILLET'S LYE EATS DIRT

THE TENDERFOOT

by GEORGE B. HODNEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail," "The Canyon Trail," etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking him into ruin."

Dad Keene, desert rat and luckless prospector till now returns to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, who had grumbled him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along while Stone and Edith are riding fence, and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions their dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Darn Stone has seen the Broken Spur men rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Keene to learn the location of his gold discovery. Dad Keene shows Dustin the mine.

They go back to camp, and Dustin shows Keene. He then the shooting on Peyotl Gregg, a drug addict, who, spurred by the narrative he had taken, did not know whether he was guilty or not. They bury Kane, and then return to the Broken Spur ranch. Meanwhile at the Hour-Glass, Carr, Stone and Stone speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dad Kane. Stone had found. Stone thinks of a possible relation, and, accompanied by Edith Carr, rides out to Red Water to test out his theory, which proves correct, and they find the rich gold deposit mentioned in the prospector's notebook. As they return to the ranch, they meet Dustin leaving the house, who purposely, but unsuccessfully tries to ride down Stone.

San Dustin, the day before Gerald Keene's arrival in Reno, cunningly suggests to Peyotl Gregg that Keene or Kane was a relative of the old prospector, and was seeking information as to the old man's whereabouts. If Peyotl could live, and prevent finding out about the murder, Gregg should shoot Stone when he arrived.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Even Dustin grinned at the thought of the old ranchman, once the Notor of Bee Valley, being searched for a gun in a murder case. Gary was laughing frankly as he thrust a big hand into the side-pocket of Joe Carr's coat. But that grin suddenly froze on his face as he drew from the pocket a wadded mass of green-and-yellow silk. He set it by one dirty corner and shook it out and all the watchers started at the short, heavy Derringer pistol clattered to the floor.

Gary's eyes bulged and Crew's face changed. Carr, grown suddenly old and grave, stared at the pistol as Gary reached for it but Stone was too quick for him. He quickly retrieved the weapon and examined it carefully and a silence fell that Dustin broke.

"I reckon this clears me of all suspicion," he snarled. "When the Hourglass gets to shootin' their own partners they're droppin' sharply damned low."

"You're cleared, Dustin," he said. "But I'm givin' you a word of advice. Say nothin' of this here till I tell you. If any word gets out, I know who told it. He'll have me to reckon with. Get me?"

Dustin looked at him quierly and a chilly feeling ran up his back. He did not fear many men but he had a most healthy regard for old Jim Gary.

"Good Lord," he snapped: "I'm not interested in Hour-Glass killin' off Hour-Glass. It's rat eat rat as far as I'm concerned. I'll say not a word about it."

The door slammed behind him and Gary turned to old Carr.

"Listen now, Joe," his voice had grown suddenly old and tired for he had been fond of Joe for more than a generation. "You got some explainin' to do, Joe. Where'd you get that Derringer?"

"I never had a Derringer in my life," said Carr dully. "I ain't got one now."

Gary quierly "broke" the pistol. One barrel had been fired, in the other loaded cartridge noted and the lower barrel was foul from the explosion. He extracted the empty shell and fitted it to the big bad bullet that Gary quietly handed him. It fitted. Still Carr stared at him. Then Stone took the pistol from Gary's hand and examined it. Crew's face was a study. He could not believe the evidence of his own eyes; yet . . .

He knew old Joe Carr and loved him.

"I think we're barkin' at a knot, Sheriff," said Stone quietly.

Gary turned on him.

"When I need a tenderfoot to tell me my business, I'll call you," he said acidly. "What you got that's new?"

"A little bit of brains," said Stone. "You can see for yourself that the man's shot on the right side . . . Just above the liver. Every one in this room knows that he was standing on Mr. Carr's right. Did Carr reach clear around the man and shoot right toward himself?"

Epps and Crew both nodded and Gary looked puzzled.

"Are you sure Carr was standin' as you say?" he asked.

"Absolutely certain."

"Here," said Epps quickly: "We can't wait till you solve this case before we treat the man. I want someone to help him over to my house. I'll take care of him till you can get a regular doctor."

"One minute . . ." Gary turned to Carr . . . "Joe," he said gently: "God knows I don't like to arrest you but I've got to. The evidence is too strong against you. If you give me your word of honor not to make any break, I'll take you over to my house as a guest till the doctor gets what's to be. If this man dies, it'll be a charge of murder I suppose. You say his name's Keene?"

"Yes," Gerald Keene," said Crew. "He and Joe own the Hour-Glass together. That's the best thing to do, Jim. You take care of Joe. I'll get out to the Hour-Glass. I'm afraid I'll take some explainin' to make Edith understand."

With Logan's help they got the wounded man over to Epps' house and a woman was secured to act as a nurse and Crew drove Stone aside.

"You better stop here to-night, I reckon," he said. "What is it?" he said sharply for Stone was tugging at his pocket.

"I was goin' to say that I'd better stay in here," said Stone. "I've got a clem I want to look into, Crew . . . old man Carr never shot that man."

He drew from his pocket the green-and-yellow bandanna. "You can't tell one Derringer from another," he said: "But wearing up-parel is different. Did you ever know any man wear a damnable thing like this? It's got three bullet-holes in it so there's no doubt about what took place. The would-be murderer had the gun wrapped in this and he fired through it. That's why we didn't see any sparks. Did you ever see any one wearing a thing like this?"

Crew shook his head. Things were moving too fast for him.

"I never did," he said. "Well . . . I just got to get back to the Hour-Glass. Look out for him, Joe. Carr and old Joe, will you, Stone?"

Stone promised and Crew started the car down the street. The moment darkness hid the car, Stone hunted up Epps and almost by force dragged him into his office.

Neither man ever told what took place in that office but in a half-hour Stone emerged triumphant and headed down the street for the little office where James had held forth. That gentleman, bending over a form-case, was snatched to a stool and an evil-smelling mass of green-and-yellow silk was thrust into his nose.

"What's that smell like?" demanded Stone sharply.

Jameson, who had been writing an account of the shooting, snifled and spat.

"Peat," he said. "Why?"

"That's what struck me," said Stone. "Can you possibly be mistaken?"

"Good Lord, no. It's peat oil all right. Where'd you get it?"

"Here, see any one wearing a thing like that?"

"I never did . . . Look here, Stone . . . what're you drivin' at?"

Stone told him in well-chosen words and few and Jameson took fire at the recital.

"It looks to me as though you've got a solid murder to chew on," he said finally. "I only know one man who can be said to regularly use that infernal stuff. That's the man Peyotl Gregg told at the Broken Spur. I'll

When Is Middle Age?

What is middle age? The question was asked by Lord Hewart, the Lord Chief Justice, at the Sussex Assizes when the counsel in a case before the court referred to a certain man as "middle-aged."

"Can you tell me what is middle age?" His Lordship asked. "Isn't it always a little further on than the man who is speaking has got?"

"Forty-one," replied counsel. "A mere child," retorted the Lord Chief Justice, who himself is 65. "Don't call him middle-aged for another 20 years."

Prairie Dry Wind

The humidity of the air acts as a check on evaporation from the surface of the ground and also from the leaves and other parts of plants. Relative humidity is greatest in the vicinity of large bodies of water and on the western slopes of British Columbia. The wind blowing over the Pacific ocean becomes charged with moisture and in reaching the Coast Mountain range is forced to descend. It grows cooler until saturation point is reached when the excess moisture is deposited as rain. Passing over the mountains it descends, becomes warmer, and reaches the dry belt as a dry wind. On arriving at the still higher elevations of the Selkirk and Rocky Mountains, it again parts with more moisture and reaches the eastern slopes of the mountains and the prairies as quite a dry wind. Wind, as a rule in Canada, blows with greatest force on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, on the shores of the Great Lakes, and over the prairies.

Bargain Fares to Coast
Bargain fares to the Pacific Coast which were offered the public last Spring proved so popular the Canadian P. & C. will repeat them this spring. It was announced by J. S. A feature of these fares will be the privilege of tourists or standard sleepers at slightly higher rate and must berth charge. The special cent-a-mile fare good in coaches will also be available.

Springtime is a particularly delightful season in the Coast and indications are many will avail themselves of the low fares and make the trip at this season.
